About Us

Amar Energy Industries Morbi, Gujarat, India was started nearly 11 years ago with a simple range of solar water Heating Systems. The positive feedback received from this line of product received led to the development of the current brand, branched out not only to have a pan-india presence but an international reputation as well. Amar Energy Industries offers products, services and consultation in all segments of Solar Energy. Amar Energy Industries is now partnering and cooperating with like-minded business, governments and individuals who are keen to forward the cause and not just the business of renewable energy for the betterment and development of their surroundings and people. Along with our experienced team of engineers and professionals, Amar Energy Industries has acquired the capacity to meet the dynamic energy need of any individual or business from across the globe.

Our long term goals are focused on being the pioneer in catering to the energy and environment needs of the present and future generation. In this mammoth task we have the advantage of having a head-start in the segment when it was still in the developing stage in the country. Amar Energy Industries has taken it as its mission to provide grid-independence to the millions deprived of basic electricity even in this day and age with our transparent business conduct model.
